

E-safety Report for Governors 2016-17 – Amy Howe

- E-safety is being taught consistently throughout the school by all teachers.
- Half-termly lessons are put aside for an e-safety focus.
- Teachers report that they are teaching more e-safety than previously.
- Children report that they know what to do if they encounter an e-safety issue. They are aware of online risks and know what actions to take.
- Children are aware that
- E-safety issues are discussed with classes as they arise to keep abreast with both technological developments and real-world events. Letters have also been sent home to parents when necessary to advise them of new developments and potential associated risks.
- Parent meetings have been held again this year to update on e-safety issues, in conjunction with Southwest One.
- Staff training has also been updated and will continue to be updated yearly to keep abreast of technological developments.
- Our Year 6 digital leaders have presented in assemblies and conducted surveys in e-safety around the school.
- Year 6 digital leaders also act as mentors for younger children on e-safety issues.
